

true name is William Steinberger, came along. During the time Operative was talking to Williams several children were playing around in the street and Operative heard them call Williams "papa" several times. Another time a stout woman appeared at a window and called to Williams and asked him what I wanted and he told her I was looking for some information from him. This man "Yellow" lives in this house and is no longer employed at Swifts. They both entered the house and left me.

Operative also interviewed Mrs. Wise of 261 Broadway while trying to locate Williams. She did not know where he lives but stated that he had a repair shop across the street on Broadway for a short time, but moved from there. "Yellow" also has a car, which is an old Oldsmobile 1920 Model.
